A Clear Explanation.

If there are types enough, and the press does not break down, or the foreman gets the D. T's, the following correspondence which is published in the Advertiser this morning, will be found in this issue. It reads:

July 2, 1901.

Editor Advertiser: Please insert this few lines in your valuable columns

The New Chapel.

The cornerstone of the new St. Augustine chapel of the Catholic Mission, at Waikiki, will be laid tomorrow afternoon, the Bishop of Honolulu officiating. A large number of persons will be present to witness the ceremonies. Next week, July 13, a fair and luau will be given by several ladies of the church at the Drillshed in aid of the chapel. Father Valentin is the chief worker in the movement to give Waikiki a handsome edifice.

At the Mint.

On March 16, there will be a meeting of the directors of the Mint, to discuss the question of coinage, and the size of the equivalent to be poured out for a quarter. The stockholders are requested to meet later on in the new beer garden, back of the Mint, and there express their views on dividends and reserve funds. The President hopes that there will be a full attendance.

King Edward's Coronation.

LONDON, June 28.—The royal proclamation announcing that the coronation of King Edward is to take place in June next, the exact day not being determined upon, was read this morning at St. James' palace, Temple Bar, and the Royal Exchange, with a' the quaint medieval scenes which marked the occasion of the proclaiming of the accession of the King.

Today's ceremonial was unheralded, so the crush was not so great as on the previous occasion, but crowds gathered quickly from all directions and thronged the points at which the announcement was read.

At St. James' palace, from the purpled balcony of the palace the Norey King of Arms (William Henry Weldon), in a brilliant uniform, accompanied by the heralds and pursuivants, in gorgeous tabards and numerous state officials, read the proclamation. At the appointed hour state trumpeters, lavishly adorned in gold embroidered tunics, appeared in front of the balcony. By their side stood the Norey King of Arms, flanked by two royal maces bearing gold maces and surrounded by the blue mantle.

In addition were several other officials, all in their full official regalia, and the Earl Marshal (the Duke of Norfolk), the Lord Steward (the Earl of Pembroke), the Lord Chamberlain (the Earl of Clarendon), and others.

The trumpeters sounded a protracted fanfare and then the Norey King of Arms bared his head and read the proclamation in a clear voice, which must have been audible to the royal party occupying a stand on the grounds of Marlborough House, facing the balcony of the palace. King Edward, who wore an admiral's uniform, Queen Alexandra and others of the royal party watched the ceremony with the greatest interest, the King using field glasses to obtain a clearer view.

As the Norey King of Arms concluded with the words, "God Save the King," the trumpeters again sounded a fanfare, the King in the meantime standing at the salute.

A procession was then formed. Led by a detachment of the Horse Guards, five royal carriages, containing the heralds, pursuivants and other officers, proceeded to Temple Bar and the Royal Exchange, where the formalities, less picturesque, perhaps, were repeated.

The Lord Mayor (Frank Green) and the sheriffs met the procession at Temple Bar.

At The Opera House

There will be a big entertainment at the Opera House on Tuesday next. The company which arrived by the China, is known as the World's Entertainers, and among the artists we call attention to Harry Lee, the great Character Impersonator; to Kelly & Ashby assisted by pretty Miss Roberts as acrobats; to Arthur Nelstone, a refined comedian.

Then there is Josephine Gasman who is a Daisy when she sings her Southern Sketches and the Mahr sisters who, understanding the temperature of the town, will not be overburdened with millinery while dancing. The Tobins will furnish music on different instruments and Frances Gwynne—well, never mind, she is none of your business.

Allan Shaw will show our new treasurer a trick or two and smile a smile towards Colonel Mazuma, and then we will admire Miss Asrateta, the name is significant, who does the fire dances.

We welcome the World's Entertainers to Honolulu, and bespeak for them a full house at every performance.

Chinese Exiles.

PEKIN, June 28.—Word has been received here of the arrival of Duke Len and Prince Tuan at Ulumeki, Turkistan, to which place of banishment they have been sentenced. A Russian consul is stationed at Ulumeki, and he will notify the Russian government should the banished Chinese leave the place.
